I've read the aura of Andrew Carnegie and it isn't pretty. Reviewing his deeds, as well as his aura, one might conclude he was wasn't just richer than you or me. In his very accomplished and pious way, he was wicked.

Consider, for instance, the Homestead Strike of 1892. When workers at Carnegie Steel's main plant learned that company profits rose by 60%, they demanded pay raises in line with that increase. In response, Carnegie's management locked workers out, brought in strikebreakers and left many men dead or wounded.

In later years, he balanced that stingy side as best he could by doing charitable works like those that bear his name, such as Carnegie Hall and the Carnegie Foundation. Undeniably, the man meant well. In "The Gospel of Wealth," the captain of industry justified his beliefs with logic like this:

"Under the law of competition, the employer of thousands is forced into the strictest economies, among which the rates paid to labor figure prominently....While the law may sometimes be hard for the individual, it is best for the race"

Objections are not in order, Carnegie proclaims. So I will merely apply skills of energy literacy in an attempt to understand what made this complex man tick.

Top 10 Chakra Databanks to Magnetize Money:

1. Root Chakra Databank: Earning Money

90 miles. Intense competitiveness, even a craving, to earn and have as much money as possible. Focused in that pursuit. Ruthless, if necessary, in that pursuit.

2. Root Chakra Databank: Saving Money

80 miles. Mr. Carnegie doesn't care quite as passionately about keeping all of that wealth, so long as it is his to distribute.

3. Root Chakra Databank: Personality Brought to Work Situations

Fills the room, however big. There is only one power in that room, and it will be him. Andrew Carnegie doesn't take orders from anyone. When he chooses, he can be kind or benevolent, but only on his terms.

If you ever enjoyed watching Donald Trump say, "You're fired," that is only a mild thrill compared to what Mr. Carnegie would be able to dish out on a reality show, had he been given the opportunity.

4. Root Chakra Databank: Personality PROJECTED in Work Situations

Filling the room minus two inches. A certain way of presenting himself has been perfected over the years, growing as comfortable and familiar to him as a favorite armchair. Andrew appears softer around the edges, stern but rather kindly, and someone whose wisdom should be sought.

If he were to take disciplinary action, or otherwise boss you around, it would only be for your own good, because he really knows best.

5. Solar Plexus Chakra Databank: Self-Confidence at Work

90 miles. Considering that Carnegie is basically a sane person, that personal ego couldn't be bigger. He believes that all his success flows from qualities of superiority. Although he wouldn't consider it appropriate to brag out loud, Andrew knows his role in the scheme of things. He doesn't doubt himself in any way.

6. Solar Plexus Chakra Databank: Handling Conflict at Work

100 miles. Expect swift punitive action. Do not expect discussion, openness to other opinions, etc.

7. Heart Chakra Databank: Emotional Intelligence at Work

9 feet. A shrewd, self-consciously canny, assessment is directed at every significant player. People are sized up emotionally, and in other ways that would be relevant to doing jobs well. Whatever the outcome of that quick assessment, Carnegie is unlikely to change it in the future, even if the other person were to change significantly.

8. Throat Chakra Databank: Communication at Work

Up to 150 miles. When Andrew Carnegie is in his public persona, he feels such authority and righteousness that his speech can fill the room and beyond. He feels invincible in his ideas, instincts, and actions. He believes he has a God-ordained role to play in communicating with others. Speaking to others at work feels like a religious duty to him. Far as he is concerned, Carnegie's words are perfectly aligned with what is right and true. It is, to him, a blessing for all who hear.

9A. Third Eye Chakra Databank: Paying Attention to His Human Life

2 inches. Andrew Carnegie doesn't pay much attention to his human life for a fascinating reason. To him, "human" means taking care of himself physically. Through a fascinating set of energetic sub-routines, Carnegie detours into a different chakra databank, Living the Divine Ideal for who Andrew Carnegie is meant to be.

Reading this chakra databank:

9B. 50 miles. Carnegie notices himself with a certain detachment. His is a grander kind of ego, enriched by religious convictions, feeling chosen by God to be a very important, influential man. Within the fine fabrics of his auric field, to himself, Andrew's human life has gone public, much like a successful corporation.

10. Third Eye Chakra Databank: Connection to Spiritual Source

2 inches. Very armored, heavy energy here suggests that the owner of this chakra databank is an exceedingly devout, proudly pious, man of faith. He knows exactly what a person can and should know about God.

Carnegie seems to feel completely secure that he knows precisely what God wants of him. This has been accomplished and, therefore, Carnegie feels vastly superior to those who aren't doing so well with religion. He would like to help them, provided that they agree to do the important religious things that are supposed to be done in order to connect to God.

CONCLUSION

Sweet and sensitive? Hardly. Open minded? Not quite. Andrew Carnegie was a great man, sure, but designed as a captain of industry, not an interior decorator. We're all lucky he didn't try to earn his living as a success guru.

Note the overall pattern in our reading of his aura. Will we find something similar in other mega-wealthy business magnate? Definitely.

Certain chakra databanks were enormous, business-oriented ones that helped Carnegie to win over his competition in the objective world.

Subjective qualities like being sweet, kind, or thoughtful are optional for business success. Carnegie didn't choose to buy that option. He paid attention to people's insides only to the degree that he needed to. Even his own interior life was undeveloped, though fortified with conviction and a strong sense of superiority.
