Acknowledgments

This book has been all about teamwork, human, celestial, and Divine.

Starting with the human lineup, my gratitude goes to TIC founders Ann and Peter Meyer, plus my original TIC teachers Alix Sandra Parness and Rich Bell. Thanks go also to the current generation of leaders at Teaching of the Inner Christ.

Bill Bauman, Ph.D., is the best human teacher and healer I have known in this lifetime.

More very human thanks go to my husband Mitch Weber and our son Matt Weber. Lavish thanks also go to Amy and Doug Patton, Marilyn Cooley, J.P. Fernow, Jeffrey Chappell, Eda Warren, Judy Lavine, Melanie Matheson, Dana Wheeler.

When not using my Power of Command, I seldom talk in public about the Divine and celestial beings in my life. But I sure talk with them early each day, and sometimes other times, too. You'all know who you are, especially those who helped most with this book. It's easy for you to know how very grateful I am for your dependable, vast inspiration.

In a category of her own is an angel of the very human kind, my foreign rights agent Deanna Leah of HBG Productions, who has brought my work to readers in so many countries. Impeccable Deanna deserves thanks in many languages.

Final acknowledgments go to you Persistent Students, Wise Interpreters from Japan, and Intrepid Clients from six continents. Most strongly in my heart now is Karen Kline, making her transition back to angel as this book is being typeset. Such a hugely evolved being as my "student" this lifetime, how hilarious is that?

As for you, Resourceful Healer, if this book has touched your heart, if any of the silly jokes has made you laugh, if any of our Q&As gave you exactly what you needed, you might want to thank these great people most. Because they taught me how to teach.
